FUN Q'S WITH THE SECRETARIAT

What is your go-to MUN outfit?

Lisa: Black pants, heels and the most interesting top I can find.

Fenna: My loafers with my heart socks - they are my favorite!

Marieke: The black dress I've worn at all my previous conferences. I've been wearing it throughout my whole MUN journey!

Have you experienced any embarrassing moments from previous conferences?

Fenna: I gave a speech in favor instead of against, because I missed a part while reading the amendment.

Lisa: At my first ever conference I was the delegation of China. Since everything about MUN was new to me, I did not speak for the first days. However, at the end of the conference I was forced to speak, so I gave a speech with no content at all in a committee of 80 people, since I did not understand the resolution. I felt very embarrassed.

Marieke: I once sent in a resolution which my committee fully debated on. Unfortunately, when I was giving my final speech before voting procedure for the resolution as a whole, we heard that the approval panel found out they actually did not approve it.

Tell us your favorite MUN word.

Lisa: Decorum!

Fenna: Secretariat. It sounds so cool to me!

Marieke: I don't really have one to be honest.

What is your spirit animal and why?

Lisa: A monkey, because it's crazy and energetic like I am and my Chinese zodiac is one as well.

Fenna: A squirrel I think, because it stuffs its mouth with a lot of food like I do haha!

Marieke: Maybe a bird? Because it is independent but also free.

TIPS AND TRICKS FOR FIRST TIMERS

TIPS AND TRICKS FOR FIRST TIMERS

#1 Make good use of your researched facts; on these you can build your arguments.

#2 Try and make use of body language when speaking to make your argument appear more convincing.

#3 Listen well to other nations' arguments and see who you side with from the perspective of your country.

#4 Look for fallacies (=errors in logic and reasoning) and confront your opponent.

DID YOU SPOT THIS YEAR'S MASCOT?

A FASHION SHOW BY SOFIA MOLS

Moving towards responsible management of consumption and production

Some facts by the United Nations:

- 1) Each year, an estimated one third of all food produced - equivalent to 1.3 billion tonnes worth around $1 trillion - ends up rotting in the bins of consumers and retailers, or spoiling due to poor transportation and harvesting practices.
- 2) If people worldwide switched to energy efficient light bulbs the world would save US$120 billion annually.
- 3) Should the global population reach 9.6 billion by 2050, the equivalent of almost three planets could be required to provide the natural resources needed to sustain current lifestyles.

During our Opening Ceremony, our DSG, Marieke van den Berg gave a speech warning us for the consequences of our overproduction and consumption. Dr. Kamp-Alons from the Radboud University gave us an insight into the theme.

Each year, one third of all the produced food in the world is spilled. (1). That while 45% of all the deaths among children one to five are caused by underweight. (2) This is just one of the facts that shows the importance of responsible consumption and production. The ongoing climate crisis is another factor that shows the great significance of addressing this theme. If we continue living in the same worldwide living conditions as today, we will need three planets to provide enough resources for humankind by the year 2050. (1)

Discussing the current situation of worldwide consumption and production is therefore urgent. It does not only influence worldwide inequality and climate change, but includes aspects like partnership among nations, and discussion about different markets and economies as well.

We are looking forward to all the debating on this theme and the resolutions that will be established. The SkyMUN organization also wishes all the delegates good luck with the tough challenges this theme might bring and motivates everyone to create more with less.

SKYMUN'S WORKSHOPS

For our workshops this SkyMUN we had some of our very bright teachers at Kandinsky College teach you a lesson or entertain you with a game. We made sure to offer two variations, so there would be some nice diversity in Saturday's programme.

SKYMUN'S WORKSHOPS

A big thank you to David Rous, Anneke Thijssen, Heidrun Basset, Twan Robben, Willem Kunst & Lisa de Visser for the wonderful workshops!
