SkyMUN 2026: Adressing the Importance of Promoting the Creation of Sustainable Cities and Communities in Order to Achieve a Greener Future

With more than half of the world's population living in urban areas, cities are at the forefront of both the challenges and the solutions to sustainable development. From climate resilience and affordable housing to sustainable transport and inclusive public spaces, creating cities that are safe, resilient, and environmentally responsible is essential to building a greener future.

Through rigorous debate and multilateral diplomacy, delegates will examine the complex challenges facing urban communities and explore policies that promote resilience, inclusivity, and long-term sustainability. By fostering international dialogue on the future of our cities, SkyMUN seeks to inspire meaningful cooperation and empower the next generation of leaders to shape a more sustainable and equitable world.
